Travel information

The nearest airport is Barcelona international airport (Aeropuerto del Prat or Aeroport de Barcelona), 13 km South West of the city centre.

A taxi would cost around €25.00 to Barcelona centre and will take you about 20 minutes travel time. You can also catch the RENFE train, fare €4.10 and takes about 25 minutes to the city centre or the Aerobus express bus service which costs €5.90 and takes about 25 minutes to the city centre as well.

There are 2 smaller airports at about 100 km from Barcelona (popular with budget airlines like Ryanair):

- Girona airport. The Barcelona Bus will take you to Barcelona centre in about 1hr 10 minutes and cost €15.00 - €25.00 for a single ticket. One of the advantages of flying to Girona is that you could catch the train to see the Dalí Museum in Figueres, since it is close by, and then catch the train to Barcelona centre. Girona centre also offers an interesting half day visit.

- Reus airport. There is a public bus that leaves from Reus airport to Barcelona. It leaves from directly outside the door of arrivals at Reus airport. It's operated by the company Hispano Igualadina, and you can buy tickets in the ticket office in the arrivals terminal.

The journey time is one and a half hours, and it costs €12.50 for a single ticket and €22.00 for a return. The bus travels to Barcelona Sants bus station. The time table is adapted to coincide with flight arrivals.
